Pathways to Inclusion – Strengthening European Cooperation in Prison Education and Training

Conference Paper 4
This document was prepared by GHK (lead consultant for this project: Jo Hawley), at the request of the European Commission, Directorate General for Education and Culture, with input from the project coordinators. The contents of this publication do not necessarily reflect the position of the European Commission.
These project fiches relate to projects funded through the Socrates, Leonardo and Lifelong Learning Programmes in the area of prison education and training, over the period 2000 to date. Projects have been categorised according to the themes selected for Workshop Series A and B:

Adult basic education / Literacy, numeracy, digital literacy, soft skills

Arts and cultural creativity

Vocational Training

Guidance and counselling, Validation of competences, Qualifications frameworks

E-Learning, Information technology, Distance learning

Initial and in-service teacher training

The prison as a positive environment for learning: régime issues, role of governors, prison officers supportive of learning

Release, transition, reintegration: the role of education and training

Future research needs relating to prison education and training

Juvenile offenders

Foreign offenders and offenders from a migration or ethnic minority background

Female offenders

Long-term offenders

Short-term offenders

Offenders with learning difficulties or mental health problems

Other
Adult basic education / Literacy, numeracy, digital literacy, soft skills

Programme: Grundtvig (DA)

Title: FIT - Flexibility in prison teaching

Description: The goals of this project were to:

- develop and reinforce contact between several institutions that carry out prison teaching, and
- make teaching for adults in institutions more flexible.

A wide range of outputs were produced as a result of the project and the partners benefited from the chance to learn from each other. Outputs included: literacy and numeracy booklets in English, written by inmates for inmates, learning modules and increased flexibility in the partners’ provision of education and training.

Dates: 2001

Lead partner country: NO

Partner countries: IE, BG

Outputs: Literacy and numeracy booklets, learning modules, presentations

Title: The Open Door Project

Description: The Open Door Project aimed to deliver basic skills and computer skills training to ex-prisoners in order to enhance their chances of benefiting educational and/or employment opportunities. Originally, it was intended to create an interactive website of practical use to the target group and adult education practitioners, and to develop a training programme for staff working with this and similar learner groups. However, the partners encountered a number of obstacles in delivering the project, including the unsuccessful application of the French partner which was to deliver the staff training program.

Nevertheless, the project partners did undertake a number of activities, including training of ex-offenders in Ireland and Bulgaria and the development of a project website by the Finnish partner. An interesting learning development from the project was an increased awareness of the multi-faceted nature of disadvantage and the interface between the condition of being an ex-prisoner and identity as a refugee/displaced person / person with foreign nationality. Furthermore, the learners in Ireland gained accreditation and in most cases, continued informal learning in the area of ICT. Academic staff gained valuable experience in delivering material to disadvantaged and, at times challenging, learners.

Title: M.AB.EL - Multi-disciplinary Approach to Adult Basic Education and Learning

Description: The MABEL project aimed to explore the potential of a multi-disciplinary approach to Adult Basic Education and Learning for prisoners and young offenders, with emphasis on a common core curriculum involving Basic Numeracy, Literacy, ICT and Social and Life Skills. Staff involved in the teaching of these subjects will explore themes together, share ideas on methods and techniques and develop lessons that can be delivered to adult learners using a cross-curricular approach.

Central to this study will be the work carried out with the prisoners themselves to produce three collaborative magazines, in both paper format and on audio-tape for the visually impaired. Prisoners will share information about themselves, prison life, their local area, their country, customs, traditions and beliefs. The magazines will also include creative writing, poetry, quizzes, language games, artwork and photography and will be produced by the prisoners themselves using the most up-to-date ICT packages.

The magazines will be also be developed as a teaching/learning resource of real life experiences that can be used for learners by all partners to improve communication skills (mother tongue/foreign languages) and European Awareness. At the end of the project all partners will have a rich library of real life experiences. A project website will be created so that the results of the project can be widely disseminated.

Title: Reality, Practice and Collaboration for Education in European Prisons (Réalités, Pratiques et Collaborations pour l'Education dans les Prisons Européennes)

Description: This project is based on the belief that basic education is a right. The aims were to prepare a study on prison education in Europe, set up a network for exchange of experience and prepare a kit for people wishing to set up a prison education initiative. Two seminars and a conference will be held and a book will be prepared to raise awareness of this issue.

Title: Learning for a life in freedom

Description: The project aimed to transform prison education into a flexible and individually-oriented education which combines the improvement of formal skills with the improvement of a number of personal skills such as communication, team work, flexibility and the ability to absorb new knowledge and transform this into competences.

The project produced, tested and evaluated models for individual based learning for offenders, to replace the existing traditional 'class room' offers. The models combined the learning of general basic skills demanded in daily life as well as on the labour market with a number of personal key skills.

Title: EURO-DESIP – Diagnóstico sobre la Educación Superior en Instituciones Penitenciarias en Europa (Diagnosis of state of Higher Education in Penal Institutions in Europe)

Description: The project aims to compare Higher Education programmes addressed to students in prisons, to develop a model of good practices and promote the future development of these programmes through distance learning.

Dates: 2005

Lead partner country: ES

Partner countries: DE, FR, EL, RO, LV

Outputs: A report comparing the development of higher and secondary education programmes in the participating countries and a Guide of Good Practices for HE programme development.

Title: Visiting in Prison (VIP)

Description: The aim of the project was to create a resource (a book) to support children and families visiting prison. Each prison represented worked with learners to produce a book to reflect that particular prison’s visiting process. These books will be used as tools to teach partner countries about prison systems and culture, as well as encouraging learners to reflect on the issues surrounding being a parent in prison.

A project website was created to disseminate the outcomes and each partner held a local event to celebrate the completion of their book. The success of the project was reflected in two partners winning awards and in one country, there is a possibility that the concept to be replicated on a national basis.

Lead partner country: UK

Partner countries: DK, DE, FI, IT, PL, PT, ES

Outputs: Website, books on visiting prison, evaluation report (not yet available)

Title: Game On

Description: The project aimed to create e-learning materials and e-games in small, accessible units, to improve personal development and work sustainability skills in prisoners and ex-offenders, including additionally marginalised groups of prisoners, i.e. deaf prisoners and those who are learning disabled.

Partners created a Network Plan identifying key stakeholders and end users in each country; a trainers’ pack in five community languages (English, Italian, Bulgarian, Romanian and Greek) and other learning materials in simple English text to be accessible to deaf people with some games tracks in British Sign Language; a suite of e-learning materials in basic skills, work preparation and social and emotional intelligence and e-learning materials in basic skills, work preparation and social and emotional intelligence; a tutor handbook to train the trainers in the use of the games and offline editor; and a project Website. An additional outcome was a dedicated Project Conference in Interactive Technologies, creating a new network for valorization with accompanying Conference Papers for this and other conferences.

Lead partner country: UK

Partner countries: BG, EL, IT, RO, UK

Outputs: A network plan, a trainer’s pack, e-learning materials, a tutor handbook, project website and conference, range of publications

Title: By Learners, for Learners

Description: This project supported learners working to acquire basic literacy skills within a prison education setting and provided them with an opportunity to share their specific national/ethnic and prison cultures. The students supported ranged from basic to intermediate level learners. During the project the learners created texts relating to two topics: the prison experience and myths and legends. The students selected written pieces which were compiled into reading books, in all languages of the project partners, suited to the special needs of the adult learners in the prison learning environment. This is why the project is entitled “By Learners, for Learners”.

Materials that could not be included in the booklets are posted on the project website which can be accessed by interested parties, such as the families of the offenders.

Dates: 2006

Lead partner country: HU

Partner countries: BE, PT, UK

Outputs: Website (Yahoo group) and pan-European reading booklets produced in English, Hungarian, Portuguese and Dutch

<tr>
<td>Description: The RESO project builds on another Grundtvig project, entitled EPLLA, Engaging Prisoners in Lifelong Learning Activity, which ran from 2002-2006. The RESO project had two main aims: to improve the collaboration between prison and society and to create some training modules. Its specific objectives were to engage prisoners in Lifelong Learning activities and to induce them to reflect on issues such as health, lifestyle, environment and work. Six project meetings were held, as well as a final project conference. The majority of beneficiaries were short term-offenders (the large majority of them being foreign), who were given the best opportunity to reduce their re-offending through learning and positive activities. Long-term offenders were also engaged in project activities, offer them the opportunity to improve their respect and dignity.</td>

Title: The Heart Far Away (El Corazon Lejano)

Description: This project set up an autobiographical activity within prisons, enabling offenders to reflect on their past life and develop plans for a new future outside of prison. The objectives were:

- To reflect on the use of autobiographic work to define a project of life outside the prison.
- To develop self-identity among the offenders participating
- To encourage offenders in prisons to describe their personal experiences, in order to produce a European communication about the difficulties which they found during the period of their reintegration.
- To share and compare the results of the Project with similar experiences in European prisons.
- To communicate the results of the project to the local, regional or national educative institutions and the institutions which work with inmates in adult and juvenile prisons.
- To share the project experiences with local or regional Media
- To create a multimedia and a printed product at the end of the project.
- To introduce the methodology of autobiography as a common method of working in adult education in prisons.

The main results of the project included an online blog recording the activities undertaken and the participants’ autobiographical writings, the presentation of the results of the project to relevant media, authorities and institutions, paper and CD Rom outputs with details of the project’s achievements. The project was awarded with an Honorable Mention by the National Authority of Spanish prisons and the Government of Spain.

Title: Crossing the Bridge

Description: The partners in this project are based in urban areas and deliver learning opportunities to disadvantaged adults with low-skills, apathy for learning and facing social and economic exclusion. The partnership developed from an interest in intercultural dialogue and awareness of learners who are currently limited by social exclusion and disadvantage. All partners cited that learners attending their organisation had limited experience of travel and lacked confidence to travel alone. Therefore, the project delivered opportunities to increase the learners' intercultural awareness, to explore traditions and share life-perspectives on aspirations, seeking employment and inclusion. All learners were from deprived communities or socially excluded groups, adults with mental health issues, learning difficulties, offenders and learners with little or no qualifications or travelling experience. Learners participating in mobility activities were encouraged to relate their cultural experiences to other learners on their return, which were then recorded on a wiki site.

Title: Positive aspects of non-formal education and learning in prisons (PANEL)

Description: PANEL intended to promote life-long learning, in particular non-formal education and learning, among offenders and prison-teachers. The project aimed to enhance the potential of individuals who are partly excluded from society (namely: offenders in prisons), in order to encourage learners to feel positive about educational progress and to increase their chances for social reintegration. The project partners explored different processes of addressing inclusion through non-formal education and informal learning for inmates in prisons. The main objectives of the project were:

- To explore different processes of addressing inclusion through non-formal education for offenders in different cultures in Europe, namely Romania, Denmark, Norway and Belgium (Flanders)

- To involve the staff and learners in a dynamic formative process across Europe

The target groups of the project were: detainees, offenders and teachers and prison staff working with detainees in each country. The main activities were: exchange of experiences, staff mobility, exchanging good practices. The main product was a website (www.panel-eu.org).

Dates: 2007

Partner countries: BE, RO, NO, DK

Outputs: Website, Conference
Programme: Grundtvig (DA)

Title: Theatre Education (Teatro Educazione)

Description: The project focused on informal education in the context of artistic education for adult prisoners. The partners promoted educational workshops, with both educators and learners, held in each prison involved in the project. The aim was to exchange effective methodologies and good practices among the different institutions involved. A sharing and testing process was then implemented for each methodology proposed. Each educational proposal was also analysed and integrated into the artistic planning and theatre projects of each organization. Finally, the partners agreed upon a common plan of events for international promotion of the artistic and educational projects. The project outcomes were promoted and presented within cultural events that could host both the actual outcomes of the exchange activities, such as artistic performances, as well as round tables for theory and politics.

Dates: 2007

Title: Having a new dynamic life through employment

Description: The project intended to develop rehabilitation strategies for the target group (inmates, former inmates and unemployed people) to acquire social skills which enable them to access to a new personal, familiar, social and work life. The activities were: training sessions for both learners and teachers of staff involved; interchange of best practices regarding rehabilitation; cooperation between involved institutions; design a resource guide and a personal portfolio, etc. The partner institutions developed these strategies according to their own real social context, by adapting the general project purposes and sharing their experiences with the rest of the partners through mobilities: interchange and evaluation sessions.

Title: Sin Barreras – Without Barriers

Description: The Grundtvig Project “Without Barriers” wants to exchange experiences in the education of marginalized adults and those at risk of social exclusion, through active cooperation between the different partner institutions and with the final objective of the social insertion of the adults. In addition, it is aimed to create in their respective centres a space of tolerance and respect towards their environment and towards the cultural diversity of each individual. The project will pay special attention to the social integration of the immigrant population in prison.

Dates: 2008

Title: Foreign language acquisition made easier (FLAME)

Description: This project was designed to facilitate the process through which prisoners learn a foreign language. The partners wanted to explore new and innovative ways of explaining certain aspects of learning a foreign language within a socially excluded environment which is unique due to the nature of the institutions involved.

The main activity will be the creation of a Word Calendar that will be accompanied by an additional Exercise Book of related materials. In addition to the Calendar, each partner create individual teaching and learning materials, based upon the specific needs and requirements of the prisoners involved in the project in each participating country. The partners want to emphasize the increasing importance of learning a foreign language within the EU, as well as raise awareness within the prison community that learning a foreign language is important, but can also be enjoyable!

Title: Innovative models to integrate learning and working in adult prisons

Description: The project aims at the development of innovative and transferable models to combine learning and working in prisons in order to improve the educational opportunities for the marginalised group of adult prisoners. A multitude of provisions advancing the development of key competences of prisoners will be developed and piloted in prisons throughout the EU. This includes the development of flexibly combinable learning modules, of models for self organised learning during the working process, for an individualised needs assessment and measure planning and for integrating staff and decision makers into competence and organisational development.

Title: Hidden arts

description: The project partners work with disadvantaged people and use arts, music and culture to help the learners to cope better with life. The main goals are to prepare and motivate the participants for further education and/or enable the participants to adjust better to life and to set realistic goals. The project aim was to build up an international network to develop new ideas and inspiration on this field.

One partner organisation (AT) was able to introduce prison education to a prison as a result of the project.

Programme: Grundtvig (DA)

Title: ADHD in prison education

Description: It is estimated that many inmates in prison are suffering from Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). This may create problems among the inmates and in the prison environment. The overriding aim of the project was to find out in what way the health, welfare and school departments can cooperate in finding ways of achieving improvement for this group, and by that improving their quality of life. Project partners sought to widen and improve general knowledge about ADHD, exchanging experiences as well as teaching methodologies, and carrying out research on the topic.

Title: Korzenie / Roots

Description: The main aim of the project is to support the process social reintegration for prisoners through reference to positive values rooted in tradition, culture, and history of the region they come from, and through a reference to its present achievements and perspectives of its development.

The goal of the project was realised by organising carefully chosen and planned cognitive and educational activities for prisoners, enabling them to develop skills and interests, appealing to the sphere of feelings and emotions. During the realisation of the project, besides perceiving the prisoner as an individual, work in groups was emphasised.

Title: Improved Service Delivery in Prison Education (ISDPE)

Description: The project was designed to increase the knowledge of partner institutions of the diversity of educational systems in prisons around Europe. Project partners sought to learn from each other and develop good practices for implementing the Recommendation No.R(89) of the Council of Europe. They considered different types of programmes and set out to establish effective, creative and learning teams for prison education.

All project partners involved prison administration, educators and prisoners in cultural and social activities throughout the project. Priority was given to creative and cultural activities because they enable prisoners to develop and express themselves and minimize the detrimental effects of imprisonment.

The project generated both short-term and long-term outputs, including theatrical performances, exhibitions and books (short-term), illustrative books which are now used as teaching materials and an in-service training course (long-term).

Title: Creating space for change

Description: The project is based on the belief among the partners that education is the best way to improve the quality of life in prisons and to achieve personal changes offenders require to facilitate their social inclusion.

In most prisons there are educational activities but in many cases these activities do not take on board important issues that affect deeply the life of prisoners: health (including problems with substance misuse), family, prison culture, psychosocial problems, etc. Thus the educational offer is underused and is not as effective as it should be in facilitating the social inclusion of inmates.

The project intended to create Educational Spaces in prisons, where we can put into practice learning experiences from formal, non formal and informal education. These Spaces become places to improve life styles, health, social and family relationships, learning outcomes, vocational and professional learning, use of leisure time, and so on.

Title: The Will to Dream: Promoting Drama and Video in Prison Education

Description: The project focused on the practical use of theatre and video in adult prison education, particularly in countries in eastern and central Europe with limited experience of these areas.

The project had a number of aims:

- To create, pilot and disseminate a practical educational model
- Practical workshops for exchange of information and best practice
- To develop strategies for promoting the use of theatre and video in adult prison education
- To develop an effective framework for employing the traditions of European theatre and film in adult prison education
- To explore and analyse personal and group reactions and relationships within practical drama work in prison education
- To combat racism, xenophobia and other negative attitudes

The project successfully carried out these activities and developed a number of outputs, including background research, meetings, workshops and presentations, a degree-level learning unit and a multimedia product entitled ‘The Moral Compass’, an introduction to developing theatre and video work in prisons.

Title: Crossing the Bridge

Description: The partners in this project are based in urban areas and deliver learning opportunities to disadvantaged adults with low-skills, apathy for learning and facing social and economic exclusion. The Partnership developed from an interest in intercultural dialogue and awareness of learners who are currently limited by social exclusion and disadvantage. All partners cited that learners attending their organisation had limited experience of travel and lacked confidence to travel alone. Therefore, the project delivered opportunities to increase the learners’ intercultural awareness, to explore traditions and share life-perspectives on aspirations, seeking employment and inclusion. All learners were from deprived communities or socially excluded groups, adults with mental health issues, learning difficulties, prisoners and learners with little or no qualifications or travelling experience. Learners participating in mobility activities were encouraged to relate their cultural experiences to other learners on their return, which were then recorded on a wiki site.

Title: Theatre Education (Teatro Educazione)

Description: The project focused on informal education in the context of artistic education for adult prisoners. The partners promoted educational workshops, with both educators and learners, held in each prison involved in the project. The aim was to exchange effective methodologies and good practices among the different institutions involved. A sharing and testing process was then implemented for each methodology proposed. Each educational proposal was also analysed and integrated into the artistic planning and theatre projects of each organization. Finally, the partners agreed upon a common plan of events for international promotion of the artistic and educational projects. The project outcomes were promoted and presented within cultural events that could host both the actual outcomes of the exchange activities, such as artistic performances, as well as round tables for theory and politics.

Title: Audiovisual Education and Creation (Education et Création Audiovisuelle)

Description: This learning partnership had two main objectives: to encourage an exchange of practices and thoughts around the issue of creation and implementation of audiovisual creative workshops and training in prison; and to facilitate a dialogue between different learners (students and inmates), knowing that for inmates, there could not be any physical mobility.

Participants in the project created ‘video letters’ describing their daily life, either inside or outside of prison. These video letters were shared among participants and were also screened in a number of public forums, including a festival (the Libere di vivere festival) in Italy.

Through their involvement in the project, the partners acquired new ways or working. It is now intended that the project will be extended for a further five years.

Title: PAN European Network: European Network for organisations involved in adult prison arts education

Description: The PAN European Network was established as a transnational network of organisations involved in adult arts education for prison inmates and ex-offenders across Europe. The project was not targeted at specific groups of prisoners; rather, it focussed on prison education in general with particular attention paid to issues relating to the context, support, strategies and practice of delivering arts education for adult offenders and ex-offenders in a European context. The network now has over 100 partners from over 20 countries.

Dates: 2007

Lead partner country: UK

Partner countries: AT, BG, DK, DE, EE, EL, IE, LV, MT, NL, NO, UK

Outputs: The key output of the project was the successful development of a PAN European Network on prison arts education. Other outputs include: a project web-site; the further development of the Anne Peaker Centre database; four editions of a journal linked to the project; three PAN International Annual Conferences, specific research publications; and a travelling exhibition of prisoners’ art work.

Title: Positive aspects of non-formal education and learning in prisons (PANEL)

Description: PANEL intended to promote life-long learning, in particular non-formal education and learning, among offenders and prison-teachers. The project aimed to enhance the potential of individuals who are partly excluded from society (namely: offenders in prisons), in order to encourage learners to feel positive about educational progress and to increase their chances for social reintegration. The project partners explored different processes of addressing inclusion through non-formal education and informal learning for inmates in prisons. The main objectives of the project were:

- To explore different processes of addressing inclusion through non-formal education for offenders in different cultures in Europe, namely Romania, Denmark, Norway and Belgium (Flanders)
- To involve the staff and learners in a dynamic formative process across Europe

The target groups of the project were: detainees, offenders and teachers and prison staff working with detainees in each country. The main activities were: exchange of experiences, staff mobility, exchanging good practices. The main product was a website (www.panel-eu.org).

Title: Little stories, great hopes – Autobiography as an instrument for re-planning in consequence of an imprisonment experience

Description: The aim of the project is to carry out an autobiographical activity inside penitentiaries for promoting and encouraging the reconsideration of one’s own past and re-planning one’s future ‘beyond the bars’. The project aims to collect the experiences of those detainees who, through narrations of their own life, work, suffering and imprisonment occurrences, try and want to find new perspectives and opportunities for their future. These above-mentioned worlds, these extracts of existence will be collected and illustrated by the means of narration, epistolary correspondence, poetry, music, photography art and video, among others. The results of each autobiographical workshop, i.e. a synthesis of all the materials produced on both paper and multimedia supports (CD Rom, video and so on), will be divulged to all the penitentiaries involved in the project and published on the web.

Title: Memory and time: autobiography as an instrument for re-planning in consequence of an imprisonment

Description: The aim of the project is to introduce an autobiographical activity inside penitentiaries, to promote and encourage the reconsideration of one’s own past and re-planning one’s future “beyond the bars”.

Writing has long been considered a way of enabling offenders to develop better self-awareness, voice their hopes and desires, acquire an awareness of passing time, reflect on their own past and imagine a new different life. In penitentiaries writing therefore represents a creative activity which helps the individual to survive and pursue a space for freedom. It becomes an instrument for is covering new “worlds” and new ways of self-expression.

Starting from this premise, the project aims to “collect” the experiences of those detainees who, through narrations of their own life, work, suffering and imprisonment occurrences, try and want to find new perspectives and opportunities for their future. These above-mentioned “worlds”, these extracts of existence will be collected and illustrated by the means of narration, epistolary correspondence, poetry, music, photography and video, among others.

The results of each autobiographical workshop, that means a synthesis of all the materials produced on both paper and multimedia supports (CD Rom, video and so on), will be divulged to all the penitentiaries involved in the project and published on the web.

Description: This project aims to tackle the problem of early school leaving, in order to improve the development and qualification of individuals and support their access to the labour market.

The project will focus on two main good practices concerned with the transfer of techniques and knowledge related to the writing of dramas and plays (theatre of "social inclusion") used for working with adult offenders and social workers working with disabled people. The project aims to transfer the outcomes and outputs achieved and produced by these two practices to three national systems (Italy, Greece and Romania), for school teachers, counsellors, trainers and tutors working with young people aged 15-18 at risk of school drop-out or already having done so.

Title: The Development and Preparation of Catering Training Programmes and Certification for Prisoners and Prison Officers

Description: The project intended to support offenders to acquire catering and associated management skills and will create training modules and an apprenticeship in the prison’s catering services. They offenders will therefore be able to acquire the necessary qualifications by training at the workplace. The managers of this sector were also to be trained in training prisoners.

The partners intended to analyse the roles prisoners currently have in the prison catering services, then to set up appropriate training modules and assessment procedures for offenders and a training module for prison officers.

Title: Creation as a reintegration tool (CREIN)

Description: This project is based on a previous Leonardo da Vinci project entitled CREATIVA. The CREIN project is mainly designed to develop a complete vocational reintegration process for women prisoners in the field of new technologies used in SMEs. The project set out to create a method and tools to be used in the framework of different modules: a training module, an awareness-raising module targeted mainly at SMEs and their training needs, a work experience and training support module, and a module for evaluating the vocational reintegration process. All the materials produced were to be made available on the Internet site and on CD-ROMs in all partnership languages (DE, ES, FR, IT, PL, EN). Beneficiaries of the project included women prisoners and marginalised women, the penitentiary systems in general, and all agencies responsible for the vocational integration of this target group. The dissemination strategy for the project results provided for the creation of an Internet site, the organisation of conferences and seminars, visits to firms and articles to be published in the specialised press.

Title: Dissemination of an e-business to promote the training of European students (DELFEE)

Description: This project involved the distribution and dissemination of a collaborative distance-learning training module. The aim was twofold: firstly, to enhance the abilities of students so that they can find work more easily and, secondly, to develop lifelong learning among a more specific target group i.e. staff of SME’s, trainees, the disabled and prisoners. In addition to the marketing and communication strategy, the project also dealt with the training of trainers and university teaching staff and other training bodies. The principal results were the dissemination of basic skills acquired with the help of new information and communication technologies and the development of entrepreneurship at European level.

Title: Game On

Description: The project aimed to create e-learning materials and e-games in small, accessible units, to improve personal development and work sustainability skills in prisoners and ex-offenders, including additionally marginalised groups of prisoners, i.e. deaf prisoners and those who are learning disabled.

Partners created a Network Plan identifying key stakeholders and end users in each country; a trainers’ pack in five community languages (English, Italian, Bulgarian, Romanian and Greek) and other learning materials in simple English text to be accessible to deaf people with some games tracks in British Sign Language; a suite of e-learning materials in basic skills, work preparation and social and emotional intelligence and e-learning materials in basic skills, work preparation and social and emotional intelligence; a tutor handbook to train the trainers in the use of the games and offline editor; and a project Website. Title: Theatre Education (Teatro Educazione)

Description: The project focused on informal education in the context of artistic education for adult prisoners. The partners promoted educational workshops, with both educators and learners, held in each prison involved in the project. The aim was to exchange effective methodologies and good practices among the different institutions involved. A sharing and testing process was then implemented for each methodology proposed. Each educational proposal was also analysed and integrated into the artistic planning and theatre projects of each organization. Finally, the partners agreed upon a common plan of events for international promotion of the artistic and educational projects. The project outcomes were promoted and presented within cultural events that could host both the actual outcomes of the exchange activities, such as artistic performances, as well as round tables for theory and politics.

Title: Knowledge for future integration of marginalized and disadvantaged citizens

Description: The project aimed to develop a new approach to prison education, through the introduction of a conceptual framework for the development of alternative educational methods, approaches and tools for successful reintegration of marginalized groups into the society. The project was based on the identification of skill shortage occupations in the economy (tool industry). Prisoners can therefore be educated for undersubscribed jobs. To provide an effective education programme and ensure a successful implementation of the project the project partnership intended to: cooperate with prisoners to determine their needs; undertake a socio-psychological analysis to help choose an appropriate approach to prison education; and develop elements of motivation. The tutors who worked with prisoners were introduced to an integrated way of learning (traditional and e-learning) with emphasis on 2D and 3D simulations, which enable greater interactivity and independence in the education process.

Title: ADHD in prison education

Description: It is estimated that many inmates in prison are suffering from Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). This may create problems among the inmates and in the prison environment. The overriding aim of the project was to find out in what way the health, welfare and school departments can cooperate in finding ways of achieving improvement for this group, and by that improving their quality of life. Project partners sought to widen and improve general knowledge about ADHD, exchanging experiences as well as teaching methodologies, and carrying out research on the topic.

Title: Learning for a life in freedom

Description: The project aimed to transform prison education into a flexible and individually-oriented education which combines the improvement of formal skills with the improvement of a number of personal skills such as communication, team work, flexibility and the ability to absorb new knowledge and transform this into competences.

The project produced, tested and evaluated models for individual based learning for offenders, to replace the existing traditional ‘class room’ offers. The models combined the learning of general basic skills demanded in daily life as well as on the labour market with a number of personal key skills.

Title: Korzenie / Roots

Description: The main aim of the project is to support the process social reintegration for prisoners through reference to positive values rooted in tradition, culture, and history of the region they come from, and through a reference to its present achievements and perspectives of its development.

The goal of the project was realised by organising carefully chosen and planned cognitive and educational activities for prisoners, enabling them to develop skills and interests, appealing to the sphere of feelings and emotions. During the realisation of the project, besides perceiving the prisoner as an individual, work in groups was emphasised.

<td>Description: This project focused on the accreditation of prior (experiential) learning for offenders. The partners worked together to examine the constraints and disincentives to the development of accreditation of prior (experiential) learning in the prison environment; to reflect on educational and training practices in Europe; to develop means of support, assistance and advice adapted to the prison context; and to involve prison personnel in the process of accreditation of prior (experiential) learning by offenders. A report on social reintegration and the accreditation of prior learning has been prepared in English and French. Title: Beyond Open Doors

Description: This project set out to improve the preparation of learners in prison for a smooth reintegration into the community, by developing a strategy for post-release, based on the learner’s specific requirements. The partners planned to develop a strategy for educational activities or a counselling programme for differentiated use.

Learners played an active role in the partnership, through interviews and a development group formed of different staff members and stakeholders.

Dates: 2007

Programme: Grundtvig (DA)

Title: Disseminating European experiences on the development of entrepreneurship skills of ex-prisoners

Description: The project developed specific methodological tools to provide ex-prisoners with the skills necessary for the creation a successful business (how to: know your customer; test and protect your product; test distribution; create a business plan; find the best legal structure; business model; organisation plan; marketing plan; financial plan; put together a start up team, etc.) or for finding adequate employment (handling paperwork, finding employment support programs, locating jobs, preparing for interviews, filling out applications and answering, questions about having been in prison, etc). The educational methodology developed by the project can be used by any other European community to provide ex-prisoners with the skills necessary for the creation of a successful business or for finding adequate employment.

Dates: 2006

Title: Learning Infrastructure for Correctional Services - European Transfer (LICOS)
Description: E-learning provides knowledge on a level which can be tailored to the individual, meeting the educational needs of a large variety of learners. This opens up time for teachers to act as a consultant, moderator and facilitator for the students, giving profound advice according to the students’ level of qualification, motivational situation etc. This kind of “blended learning” is especially effective in the correctional service: modularised learning can support inmates with short term sentences; digital media as learning environment enhances the IT and media competencies of inmates, etc. This project aims to develop a European e-learning framework for prison education.
Dates: 2008
Lead partner country: DE
Partner countries: AT, HU, NL, NO, ES
Outputs: E-learning framework for prison education

Programme: Leonardo
Title: APL for young people in juvenile prison
Description: The project partners have recently commenced a pilot to recognize the competences of juvenile offenders (gained in formal and informal learning) using the accreditation of prior learning (APL). The young people and the tutors are trained to develop a portfolio of their activities, products and results of training. This portfolio is combined with an official APL procedure, linking the portfolio to a formal qualification. Leaving detention with the portfolio and these formal and recognised qualifications makes it easier for the youngsters to continue learning and/or working after their detention and therefore reduces the risk of a fallback to criminal behaviour.

The aim of this project is to share the experiences in providing APL for this target group with others, so that (best) practices can be shared and products can be improved. During the project the partners will share their experiences, update the products and pilot new products. Both partners are involved in training young people in prison.

The project activities include: sharing experiences on VET in prison in an international context; updating the Dutch materials for portfolio and APL for this target group; adapting the materials for use in the other partner countries; piloting the use of the portfolio and APL in other countries; evaluating the experiences and results; and publishing the portfolio and APL tools and lessons learned.

Title: Foreign language acquisition made easier (FLAME)

Description: This project was designed to facilitate the process through which prisoners learn a foreign language. The partners wanted to explore new and innovative ways of explaining certain aspects of learning a foreign language within a socially excluded environment which is unique due to the nature of the institutions involved.

The main activity will be the creation of a Word Calendar that will be accompanied by an additional Exercise Book of related materials. In addition to the Calendar, each partner create individual teaching and learning materials, based upon the specific needs and requirements of the prisoners involved in the project in each participating country. The partners want to emphasize the increasing importance of learning a foreign language within the EU, as well as raise awareness within the prison community that learning a foreign language is important, but can also be enjoyable!

Title: How Individual Learning Pathways are Possible for Offenders

Description: The partnership wants to investigate how individual learning pathways and meaningful pedagogical approaches can be developed and applied in prison education, and also to learn from each others’ competences and experience.

Commencing in Autumn 2009, the partners will organize a series of study visits. Each study visit will focus on a specific topics which the partners consider to be important in relation to the offender’s journey through prison education. Each partner is responsible for a specific topic, based on their expertise and field of work.

Dates: 2009

Lead partner country: NO

Partner countries: BE, DE, FR, FI, LU,

Outputs: One study visit has taken place so far (four more will be arranged), a website and dissemination leaflet are being prepared

Title: Educational toolkit for breaking down walls! Social reintegration of offenders - EdUkit

Description: The project aims to explore, analyse and develop alternative learning approaches to improve offenders’ life skills for their social reintegration in different European countries. The main focus of the project is on finding employment on release.

The project partners will exchange experiences, materials and methods. They will also try to identify examples of good practice in different countries that may inspire their own practice and jointly develop criteria for improving the existing materials and methods.

A website will also be built containing models of good practice, to facilitate exchange of experience and cooperation among trainers, teachers, and prison staff involved in education.

Title: Innovative models to integrate learning and working in adult prisons

Description: The project aims at the development of innovative and transferable models to combine learning and working in prisons in order to improve the educational opportunities for the marginalised group of adult prisoners. A multitude of provisions advancing the development of key competences of prisoners will be developed and piloted in prisons throughout the EU. This includes the development of flexibly combinable learning modules, of models for self organised learning during the working process, for an individualised needs assessment and measure planning and for integrating staff and decision makers into competence and organisational development.

Title: The Open Door Project

Description: The Open Door Project aimed to deliver basic skills and computer skills training to ex-prisoners in order to enhance their chances of benefiting educational and/or employment opportunities. Originally, it was intended to create an interactive website of practical use to the target group and adult education practitioners, and to develop a training programme for staff working with this and similar learner groups. However, the partners encountered a number of obstacles in delivering the project, including the unsuccessful application of the French partner which was to deliver the staff training program.

Nevertheless, the project partners did undertake a number of activities, including training of ex-offenders in Ireland and Bulgaria and the development of a project website by the Finnish partner. An interesting learning development from the project was an increased awareness of the multi-faceted nature of disadvantage and the interface between the condition of being an ex-prisoner and identity as a refugee/displaced person/person with foreign nationality. Furthermore, the learners in Ireland gained accreditation and in most cases, continued informal learning in the area of ICT. Academic staff gained valuable experience in delivering material to disadvantaged and, at times challenging, learners.

Title: FIT - Flexibility in prison teaching

Description: The goals of this project were to:

- develop and reinforce contact between several institutions that carry out prison teaching, and
- make teaching for adults in institutions more flexible.

A wide range of outputs were produced as a result of the project and the partners benefited from the chance to learn from each other. Outputs included: literacy and numeracy booklets in English, written by inmates for inmates, learning modules and increased flexibility in the partners’ provision of education and training.

<td>Description: The project aimed to raise the quality of education in prisons by developing specialised training courses for teachers working in prisons and to improve the quality of prison education by making use of ICT. The project partners compared different curricula, perspectives and models of delivery of resettlement training across four countries and identified strengths, weaknesses and critical success factors reported in evaluation reports. Specifically the project wanted to identify good practice and innovative approaches that can inform the training programmes and provide a collection of these ideas and materials as resources that can be used by trainers and officers to inform their practice rather than producing an academic research report. The project set out to develop and pilot two short courses, one for teachers and trainers who are new to working with prisoners and ex-offenders and a parallel course for prison officers involved in education and training programmes for the first time. It was to develop and pilot software, which will provide a safe and secure on-line environment suitable for use in prisons. Title: Knowledge for future integration of marginalized and disadvantaged citizens

Description: The project aimed to develop a new approach to prison education, through the introduction of a conceptual framework for the development of alternative educational methods, approaches and tools for successful reintegration of marginalized groups into the society. The project was based on the identification of skill shortage occupations in the economy (tool industry). Prisoners can therefore be educated for undersubscribed jobs. To provide an effective education programme and ensure a successful implementation of the project the project partnership intended to: cooperate with prisoners to determine their needs; undertake a socio-psychological analysis to help choose an appropriate approach to prison education; and develop elements of motivation. The tutors who worked with prisoners were introduced to an integrated way of learning (traditional and e-learning) with emphasis on 2D and 3D simulations, which enable greater interactivity and independence in the education process.

Title: Preparing for and Handling Opportunities for Employment, saying “No” to Isolation and Xenophobia (PHOENIX)

Description: This project aimed to help disadvantaged groups to seek and secure employment. Each partner institution worked with different target groups from within the overall group of the unemployed (for the Maltese partner, the chosen group was prisoners) Partners commenced the project by distributing a questionnaire among their chosen target group, in order to collect information about their needs and wants. The results from the questionnaires were used to develop a programme of studies (focusing on life skills and computer skills). The programme was administered to 15 unemployed persons from each participating country (in Malta, to 15 prisoners). Feedback on the course was very positive

A website was created where project materials were hosted. All resources are also available on a CD-Rom and a booklet has been produced with the results of the research and the course. These products, as well as the delivery of a final conference, helped to disseminate the project.

Title: Community Integration and Cohesion (C.I.C)

Description: The Community Integration and Cohesion (C.I.C) project focused on developing methods to promote integration and cohesion amongst adult learners, particularly those from inner-city areas and/or disadvantaged/marginalised communities. The aim of the project is to develop a training product made up of a DVD plus tutor and trainee workbooks.

The project partners will work together to adapt an innovative DVD produced by Merseyside Expanding Horizons (MEH). The DVD presented the stories of real people who had experienced some form of exclusion in their lives e.g. a refugee, a deaf person, an ex-offender etc. and in total, nine case studies are portrayed. The aim in producing that DVD was to use it in the development of a course/seminar/workshop which would enable learners to “experience” the lives, fear and hopes of individuals from different communities in our society.

Lead partner country: UK

Partner countries: BG, EL, LT, ES, RO

Outputs: The end product will be: a DVD plus teacher/trainers manual and workbooks produced for each country participating in the project. All materials will reflect the situation in the participating countries and will published in the national languages of the partners, as well as in English.

<td>Description: The R.O.L project set out to develop a series of web-based tools to increase the employment potential of inmates in Third Level Penitentiary (short term, low-sentence or imminent release prisoners). The project aimed to develop a needs evaluation tool to enable the development of a professional and occupational profile for third level inmates, to be established via a web-based platform allowing access for both individual inmates and relevant support staff. A further business information tool (also web-based) was to be developed for work with individual employers in determining current attitudes towards the employment of ex-offenders. Project partners worked together to develop and validate both tools in the relevant partner languages. A ‘Guide to Occupational Resources’ for use by support staff within the target institutions was also to be developed and a ‘train the trainer’ course held to further instruct support staff in the use of the developed tools. Partners wanted to use ‘lessons learned’ from the project to contribute to social dialogue on this issue (press, radio, input at conferences, etc.) and work closely with both social partners and employers to better encourage the social re-insertion of those recently released from institutions.</td>

Title: European Response to diversity

Description: This was a project to promote lifelong learning and to enhance the potential of individuals to facilitate social integration. It aimed to:

- explore different processes of addressing inclusion and an equal opportunities framework through education for disadvantaged people from different countries and cultures
- develop and involve the staff of the different European institutions participating in the project in a dynamic formative process

The target groups were adult learners who are disadvantaged for social and economic reasons (offenders, ethnic minorities, immigrants, asylum seekers) and training/teaching staff and other professionals who work with disadvantaged people in each country.

The main activities consisted of exchanging experiences and methodologies between participants, through visits, seminars, staff and ICT. The partners also organised thematic workshops and conferences. The main product was a guide of good practices collected from the partners’ countries.

Title: Dissemination of an e-business to promote the training of European students (DELFEE)

Description: This project involved the distribution and dissemination of a collaborative distance-learning training module. The aim was twofold: firstly, to enhance the abilities of students so that they can find work more easily and, secondly, to develop lifelong learning among a more specific target group i.e. staff of SME's, trainees, the disabled and prisoners. In addition to the marketing and communication strategy, the project also dealt with the training of trainers and university teaching staff and other training bodies. The principal results were the dissemination of basic skills acquired with the help of new information and communication technologies and the development of entrepreneurship at European level.

Title: Centre 4 - Concerted Action 'Centre 4' Juvenile Probation Officers

Description: Centre 4 aimed to develop and pilot a training strategy in the field of juvenile probation. The main goals of the project were the improvement of knowledge, professional skills and competencies of specialised staff in institutional authorities and the introduction of innovative methods and best practice on issues related to juvenile probation and surveillance. Activities included the design and development of innovative training programmes for juvenile probation officers and graduates entering the labour market and the development of a pilot package for the monitoring and re-integration of juvenile offenders. The project aimed to intensify co-operation and synergy between national authorities, professional associations and other related judicial, welfare, educational and research organisations, which concentrate on and respond to juvenile delinquency through the provision of probation and monitoring services and the protection and re-integration of juvenile offenders. To this end, Centre 4 set out to establish an informal, transnational forum on judicial and home affairs to facilitate the exchange of good practices.

Title: Approaches to the Promotion of Active Citizenship with disadvantaged communities (ATPAC)

Description: ATPAC is a platform of NGO's and other public educational organisations devoted to promoting a better understanding of active citizenship. This platform facilitates communication, the sharing of experiences related to the promotion of active citizenship and the creation of a process for disseminating best practice.

ATPAC partners developed a common understanding of active citizenship and through the platform were able to exchange information, experiences and resources. They gained a wider knowledge about the partner countries, the institutions and their tasks, the different ways they solve or try to solve these tasks. The partners had different mentalities and used different methods but above all had a very common understanding concerning common values, especially in relation to disadvantaged groups and communities.

Title: Vocational Training Programme "Assessment and Case Management" (ACMP)

Description: The general aim of the project was to reduce social isolation and increase the social involvement of young offenders (aged 18-25), thereby improving their position on the labour market and reducing re-offending. The project undertook a complete process of analysis, design, development, testing and dissemination of a specialized multi-module training programme - Assessment and Case Management Program (ACMP) - for social workers, supporting them in training young offenders before and after release.

The main project output was the ACMP training programme, which has now been implemented as a Master's degree specialisation at Plovdiv University.

Title: E-Learning Education for Prisoners and Prisoners Professionals (EEPP)

Description: This project started in August 2009 and will be completed in August 2011. The primary objective of the project is to establish and develop a dialogue among prison organisational and managerial staff and teachers from educational organisations engaged in working with prisoners, on issues, dynamics and experiences related to the use of ICT and distance learning for those at risk of social exclusion, particularly prisoners, and prisoners professionals. The project aims also to create a community of trainers able to maintain a continuous dialogue on these issues and to be the sponsor of new learning opportunities and reintegration into society of persons at risk of exclusion. The dialogue will take place through a series of five meetings over the lifetime of the project and through the use of electronic communication tools. The project results will be disseminated through a website, by meetings organised by local partners and by contributions to relevant publications.

| Description: The project was designed to increase the knowledge of partner institutions of the diversity of educational systems in prisons around Europe. Project partners sought to learn from each other and develop good practices for implementing the Recommendation No.R(89) of the Council of Europe. They considered different types of programmes and set out to establish effective, creative and learning teams for prison education.

  All project partners involved prison administration, educators and prisoners in cultural and social activities throughout the project. Priority was given to creative and cultural activities because they enable prisoners to develop and express themselves and minimize the detrimental effects of imprisonment.

  The project generated both short-term and long-term outputs, including theatrical performances, exhibitions and books (short-term), illustrative books which are now used as teaching materials and an in-service training course (long-term). |  |

Description: This project focused on the accreditation of prior (experiential) learning for offenders. The partners worked together to examine the constraints and disincentives to the development of accreditation of prior (experiential) learning in the prison environment; to reflect on educational and training practices in Europe; to develop means of support, assistance and advice adapted to the prison context; and to involve prison personnel in the process of accreditation of prior (experiential) learning by offenders. A report on social reintegration and the accreditation of prior learning has been prepared in English and French. A survey has also been carried out on the same subjects, which could be used to support action research at European level.

Title: Visiting in Prison (VIP)

Description: The aim of the project was to create a resource (a book) to support children and families visiting prison. Each prison represented worked with learners to produce a book to reflect that particular prison's visiting process. These books will be used as tools to teach partner countries about prison systems and culture, as well as encouraging learners to reflect on the issues surrounding being a parent in prison.

A project website was created to disseminate the outcomes and each partner held a local event to celebrate the completion of their book. The success of the project was reflected in two partners winning awards and in one country, there is a possibility that the concept to be replicated on a national basis.

Title: Innovative Strategies to prevent repeat offenders offending (Stratégies innovantes pour la prévention de la récidive)

Description: Re-offending represents a large part of crime statistics in Europe. It is within this context that this project aims to emphasise the impact that prevention polices may have on the strengthening of social cohesion within communities, with the common point being the focus on people and their relationship with society. The target audience will be therefore be municipality workers from departments for social affairs and prevention, in charge of social inclusions policies.

The first phase of the project consisted in identifying these strategies and seeing how an effective partnership between the different stakeholders concerned by social cohesion can be put in place, with a partnership being the only method which guarantees a global and diverse approach. Four study visits organized in Gottingen (DE), Valencia (ES), Torino (IT) and Paris (FR) allowed partners to meet and to exchange the best practices, which in turn allowed a collection of the most promising approaches to be established. The materials collected within the study visits and as a result of the research carried out by each partner have been collected on the project’s website.

In the second phase, the partners created recommendations aimed at the actors involved locally and trialled pilot programmes in three cities. This led to the creation of a methodological training kit. Translated into French and English, this final report will serve as a reference tool for local administrations in need of guidance in this area.

Title: Sharing experiences about prisoners LLL and employment after releasing

Description: The main objective of this project is to share experiences and practices among the partner organisations, with a focus on professional insertion after learning and training in prison. Five meetings will have taken place by the end of the project (four have taken place so far), during which the partners learn about how the other countries address the professional reinsertion of offenders and work towards the preparation of the final project output – which is likely to be a book in English and French. The final aim of the project is to help the learners to find the best solution to socio-professional reinsertion after prison.

Title: LEGAMI (Bonds) – Learning partnership on maintaining parent-children bonds when the parents are imprisoned (Partenariato di apprendimento sul mantenimento del legame tra figli e genitori in situazioni di detenzione)

Description: LEGAMI brings together four European partners working with imprisoned parents. The Grundtvig funding for this partnership provides the opportunity to increase their international collaboration on comparing and developing best practices, organising exchanges in order to implement awareness-raising actions and in order to organise and study the content, methodology and delivery of a series of conferences to spread existing best practices, raising awareness among social players involved in this issue and promoting the TIP (Training and Information Pack Prison) guidelines which are devoted to training and sensitising staff working in different fields (schools, prisons and practitioners), focused on the theme of the relationship between imprisoned parents and their children.

A range of activities were carried out for this project, including a training course for prison staff, an exhibition of the artwork of children whose parents are in prison, press conferences and partner meetings to develop the TIP tool. In addition an integrated, socio-educational place called ‘Yellow Space’ was developed in Milan’s San Vittore prison and the partners collaborated with Save the Children on the preparation of two reports.

Title: A New Chance

Description: The aim of this project was to improve the provision of support to enable ex-offenders to integrate back into society. The main focus of the project was digital literacy and partners tried out different approaches towards working with this target group. Partnership meetings were held, which enabled partners to exchange experiences. Learners were also involved in the project by taking an active part in the meetings, as well as through exchange activities and working with project topics between the meetings. A project website was developed to host all information about the project. The website also provided ‘chat’ areas for students from the participating institutions. The final project product was an e-book, presenting proposals for good practice and details of all project activity.

Dates: 2006

Title: Reintegrating prisoners through local partnership - RESO (Reinsertion des detenus à travers le partenariat local)

Description: The RESO project builds on another Grundtvig project, entitled EPLLA, Engaging Prisoners in Lifelong Learning Activity, which ran from 2002-2006. The RESO project had two main aims: to improve the collaboration between prison and society and to create some training modules. Its specific objectives were to engage prisoners in Lifelong Learning activities and to induce them to reflect on issues such as health, lifestyle, environment and work. Six project meetings were held, as well as a final project conference. The majority of beneficiaries were short term-offenders (the large majority of them being foreign), who were given the best opportunity to reduce their re-offending through learning and positive activities. Long-term offenders were also engaged in project activities, offer them the opportunity to improve their respect and dignity.

Title: European Resettlement Training and Education for Prisoners

Description: The project aimed to raise the quality of education in prisons by developing specialised training courses for teachers working in prisons and to improve the quality of prison education by making use of ICT. The project partners compared different curricula, perspectives and models of delivery of resettlement training across four countries and identified strengths, weaknesses and critical success factors reported in evaluation reports. Specifically the project wanted to identify good practice and innovative approaches that can inform the training programmes and provide a collection of these ideas and materials as resources that can be used by trainers and officers to inform their practice rather than producing an academic research report.

The project set out to develop and pilot two short courses, one for teachers and trainers who are new to working with prisoners and ex-offenders and a parallel course for prison officers involved in education and training programmes for the first time. It was to develop and pilot software, which will provide a safe and secure on-line environment suitable for use in prisons. Training in the use of the software will be an integral part of the staff development programme.

Lead partner country: UK

Partner countries: IE, RO, PT

Outputs: Two short courses (for teachers/trainers and prison officers), software to train prisoners in using ICT applications

Title: Creating space for change

Description: The project is based on the belief among the partners that education is the best way to improve the quality of life in prisons and to achieve personal changes offenders require to facilitate their social inclusion.

In most prisons there are educational activities but in many cases these activities do not take on board important issues that affect deeply the life of prisoners: health (including problems with substance misuse), family, prison culture, psychosocial problems, etc. Thus the educational offer is underused and is not as effective as it should be in facilitating the social inclusion of inmates.

The project intended to create Educational Spaces in prisons, where we can put into practice learning experiences from formal, non formal and informal education. These Spaces become places to improve life styles, health, social and family relationships, learning outcomes, vocational and professional learning, use of leisure time, and so on.

Dates: 2006 – 2009

Lead Partner: ES

Partner countries: AT, DE, UK

Outputs: Project magazines, workshops and other learning activities, DVD with educational documentaries.

Programme: Grundtvig

Title: Sin Barreras – Without Barriers

Description: The Grundtvig Project “Without Barriers” wants to exchange experiences in the education of marginalized adults and those at risk of social exclusion, through active cooperation between the different partner institutions and with the final objective of the social insertion of the adults. In addition, it is aimed to create in their respective centres a space of tolerance and respect towards their environment and towards the cultural diversity of each individual. The project will pay special attention to the social integration of the immigrant population in prison.

Dates: 2008

Lead Partner Country: Spain

Partner countries: FR, NO, TK

Outputs: Project blog, Book detailing beneficiaries experiences, final multimedia product
Programme: Grundtvig (CA)
Title: Educational tool to integrate inmates

Description: To develop an educational pathway for inmates and ex-inmates, providing a combination of tools:
- Learning methods and pedagogical materials to provide the participants with linguistic, cultural, social, civic and professional knowledge, competences and skills
- In-service experience in the care and social sector, through the tutoring service of local associations and organisations involved in the provision of social services to people in need of care (elderly, disabled)

A wide range of outputs and products were developed by the project, including handbooks, CDs and a website.

Title: Effective Induction for Prison Teachers

Description: Partners are working together to develop an effective induction programme for teachers in prisons. The programme will cover a range of issues including the criminal justice context of the work of prison educators (tailored to the individual member states), prisoner psychology, rules for operating in a prison environment and developing teaching and learning approaches appropriate to a secure environment.

Dates: 2009

Lead partner: UK
Partner countries: EE, FI, FR, IE, PT
Outputs: Project reports and articles

Programme: Grundtvig (DA)
Title: Foreign language acquisition made easier (FLAME)

Description: This project was designed to facilitate the process through which prisoners learn a foreign language. The partners wanted to explore new and innovative ways of explaining certain aspects of learning a foreign language within a socially excluded environment which is unique due to the nature of the institutions involved.

The main activity will be the creation of a Word Calendar that will be accompanied by an additional Exercise Book of related materials. In addition to the Calendar, each partner create individual teaching and learning materials, based upon the specific needs and requirements of the prisoners involved in the project in each participating country. The partners want to emphasize the increasing importance of learning a foreign language within the EU, as well as raise awareness within the prison community that learning a foreign language is important, but can also be enjoyable!

Dates: 2009

Lead partner country: PL
Partner countries: EE, ES, SE, TK
Outputs: Word calendar and related teaching and learning materials

Title: How Individual Learning Pathways are Possible for Offenders
Description: The partnership wants to investigate how individual learning pathways and meaningful pedagogical approaches can be developed and applied in prison education, and also to learn from each others' competences and experience.

Commencing in Autumn 2009, the partners will organize a series of study visits. Each study visit will focus on specific topics which the partners consider to be important in relation to the offender's journey through prison education. Each partner is responsible for a specific topic, based on their expertise and field of work.

Dates: 2009
Lead partner country: NO
Partner countries: BE, DE, FR, FI, LU,
Outputs: One study visit has taken place so far (four more will be arranged), a website and dissemination leaflet are being prepared

Title: Educational toolkit for breaking down walls! Social reintegration of offenders - EdUkit
Description: The project aims to explore, analyse and develop alternative learning approaches to improve offenders' life skills for their social reintegration in different European countries. The main focus of the project is on finding employment on release.

The project partners will exchange experiences, materials and methods. They will also try to identify examples of good practice in different countries that may inspire their own practice and jointly develop criteria for improving the existing materials and methods.

A website will also be built containing models of good practice, to facilitate exchange of experience and cooperation among trainers, teachers, and prison staff involved in education.

Dates: 2009
Lead partner country: NO
Partner countries: BE, DK, RO, UK
Outputs: Website in development, first transnational meeting has taken place

Title: I am part of the world outside
Description: The project looked at training of women in prison who will be freed within a year. The project provided the offenders the necessary capabilities that will motivate and support them to live and work outside the prison as soon as they are free. The project focused on the design of educational modules for women in prison and built useful relationships at EU level for co-operation and implementation of better national experience.

Title: Occupational and Employment Resources: Programme aimed at inmates in Third Level Penitentiary (R.O.L)
Description: The R.O.L project set out to develop a series of web-based tools to increase the employment potential of inmates in Third Level Penitentiary (short term, low-sentence or imminent release prisoners). The project aimed to develop a needs evaluation tool to enable the development of a professional and occupational profile for third level inmates, to be established via a web-based platform allowing access for both individual inmates and relevant support staff. A further business information tool (also web-based) was to be developed for work with individual employers in determining current attitudes towards the employment of ex-offenders. Project partners worked together to develop and validate both tools in the relevant partner languages. A 'Guide to Occupational Resources' for use by support staff within the target institutions was also to be developed and a 'train the trainer' course held to further instruct support staff in the use of the developed tools. Partners wanted to use 'lessons learned' from the project to contribute to social dialogue on this issue (press, radio, input at conferences, etc.) and work closely with both social partners and employers to better encourage the social re-insertion of those recently released from institutions.
Dates: 2001

Partner countries: FR, IE, IT
Outputs: Web-based tools, guide and ‘train the trainer’ course

Programme: Leonardo
Title: Occupational and Social Re-Integration of Prisoners in Post-Penal Treatment (EXIT)
Description: The EXIT project developed a model programme to enable the occupational and social re-integration of ex-offenders into society. The worked both with ex-offenders and with professional counsellors / volunteers working to support this group. Once developed, the project partners worked with the target group in piloting the training packages with findings from the pilot influencing the final training materials in advance of their release. It was intended that the final packages would form the basis of a project website, to be available in all partner languages, thus allowing distance access and distance learning for professionals and encouraging further use of the packages with the target group.
Dates: 2001
Lead partner country: SI
Partner countries: DE, EE, NL, UK
Outputs: Training package, web-site for distance learning and dissemination
Programme: Leonardo
Title: Creation as a reintegration tool (CREIN)
Description: This project is based on a previous Leonardo da Vinci project entitled CREATIVA. The CREIN project is mainly designed to develop a complete vocational reintegration process for women prisoners in the field of new technologies used in SMEs. The project set out to create a method and tools to be used in the framework of different modules: a training module, an awareness-raising module targeted mainly at SMEs and their training needs, a work experience and training support module, and a module for evaluating the vocational reintegration process. All the materials produced were to be made available on the Internet site and on CD-ROMs in all partnership languages (DE, ES, FR, IT, PL, EN). Beneficiaries of the project included women prisoners and marginalised women, the penitentiary systems in general, and all agencies responsible for the vocational integration of this target group. The dissemination strategy for the project results provided for the creation of an Internet site, the organisation of conferences and seminars, visits to firms and articles to be published in the specialised press.

| Description: | This project built on a previous Leonardo project entitled Peer Educator Training (PET). The Peer Mentor Support Project aimed to provide a peer mentoring service to support excluded or marginalised young people, to help them to access training, education or employment. The project piloted the use of Peer Mentors, working with specific target groups, and evaluated this method as a tool for the successful (re)integration of the target groups into vocational training and employment. Each partner in the project identified a group of young persons suffering exclusion or likely to be subject to exclusion from vocational training programmes as a result of their particular needs (offenders, young people with physical or learning disabilities), volunteers were then recruited to work as mentors to a group of 2-3 individual mentees. The intended outcomes of the project were: a report detailing the Peer Mentor System; the previously developed PET Training Pack in electronic form (CD-Rom or internet) and in a variety of languages; a Peer Mentor Training and Support Pack to develop and deliver Peer Mentor programmes across a range of situations and with a range of target groups.

Title: From Offender to Adult Learner (FOTAL)

Description: This project brought together education providers and probation services to compare initial sentencing policies in connection with lifelong learning opportunities offered to adults who have committed minor offences, which do not carry a prison sentence but a community punishment order (where offenders have to do work for their community). This comparison enabled the partners to identify models of good practice which they then disseminated to appropriate organisations locally, nationally and internationally. Carefully selected offenders were involved in the mobility visits so that they could meet their counterparts in other European countries and compare their experiences.

Title: Experientia Docet

Description: The aim of the project is to decrease the risk of re-offending of specific groups of offenders (offenders with substance misuse problems and sex offenders). All participating prisons are already carrying out purposeful preventive work with these people. The most effective and successful activities are group work and therapies carried out among offenders by social-workers and psychologists. In the first project year the main activities were the observation of practical activities in prison and thematic seminars. In the second project year trial groups of sex offenders and offenders with substance misuse were formed, for the implementation of innovative and methodological principles.

Title: European Mentoring Network for Disadvantaged Groups (EUROMENTOR)

Description: The project trained mentors to support disadvantaged and disengaged target groups in order to promote their social, educational and economic inclusion. It was based on a previous Leonardo da Vinci project "Peer Mentor Support Project" and it will also pilot the train the trainer course developed in this previous project. The EUROMENTOR project was also complementary to another Leonardo project entitled "Me, Myself, I!", as it trained mentors who supported the target groups of this project. The target groups are young people aged 16-19 years from the target groups of learning, physical and sensory disability, young offenders, disaffected and disadvantaged young people who need extra support to enter educational and economic life.

Dates: 2005

Title: Vocational Training Programme "Assessment and Case Management" (ACMP)

Description: The general aim of the project was to reduce social isolation and increase the social involvement of young offenders (aged 18-25), thereby improving their position on the labour market and reducing re-offending. The project undertook a complete process of analysis, design, development, testing and dissemination of a specialized multi-module training programme - Assessment and Case Management Program (ACMP) - for social workers, supporting them in training young offenders before and after release.

The main project output was the ACMP training programme, which has now been implemented as a Master's degree specialisation at Plovdiv University.

| Title: Improved Service Delivery in Prison Education (ISDPE) |
| Description: The project was designed to increase the knowledge of partner institutions of the diversity of educational systems in prisons around Europe. Project partners sought to learn from each other and develop good practices for implementing the Recommendation No.R(89) of the Council of Europe. They considered different types of programmes and set out to establish effective, creative and learning teams for prison education. |
| All project partners involved prison administration, educators and prisoners in cultural and social activities throughout the project. Priority was given to creative and cultural activities because they enable prisoners to develop and express themselves and minimize the detrimental effects of imprisonment. |
| The project generated both short-term and long-term outputs, including theatrical performances, exhibitions and books (short-term), illustrative books which are now used as teaching materials and an in-service training course (long-term). |

| Title: Visiting in Prison (VIP) |
| Description: The aim of the project was to create a resource (a book) to support children and families visiting prison. Each prison represented worked with learners to produce a book to reflect that particular prison's visiting process. These books will be used as tools to teach partner countries about prison systems and culture, as well as encouraging learners to reflect on the issues surrounding being a parent in prison. |
| A project website was created to disseminate the outcomes and each partner held a local event to celebrate the completion of their book. The success of the project was reflected in two partners winning awards and in one country, there is a possibility that the concept to be replicated on a national basis. |

Title: Crossing the Bridge

Description: The partners in this project are based in urban areas and deliver learning opportunities to disadvantaged adults with low-skills, apathy for learning and facing social and economic exclusion. The Partnership developed from an interest in intercultural dialogue and awareness of learners who are currently limited by social exclusion and disadvantage. All partners cited that learners attending their organisation had limited experience of travel and lacked confidence to travel alone. Therefore, the project delivered opportunities to increase the learners’ intercultural awareness, to explore traditions and share life-perspectives on aspirations, seeking employment and inclusion. All learners were from deprived communities or socially excluded groups, adults with mental health issues, learning difficulties, prisoners and learners with little or no qualifications or travelling experience. Learners participating in mobility activities were encouraged to relate their cultural experiences to other learners on their return, which were then recorded on a wiki site.

Title: European Resettlement Training and Education for Prisoners

Description: The project aimed to raise the quality of education in prisons by developing specialised training courses for teachers working in prisons and to improve the quality of prison education by making use of ICT. The project partners compared different curricula, perspectives and models of delivery of resettlement training across four countries and identified strengths, weaknesses and critical success factors reported in evaluation reports. Specifically the project wanted to identify good practice and innovative approaches that can inform the training programmes and provide a collection of these ideas and materials as resources that can be used by trainers and officers to inform their practice rather than producing an academic research report.

The project set out to develop and pilot two short courses, one for teachers and trainers who are new to working with prisoners and ex-offenders and a parallel course for prison officers involved in education and training programmes for the first time. It was to develop and pilot software, which will provide a safe and secure on-line environment suitable for use in prisons. Training in the use of the software will be an integral part of the staff development programme.

Title: Innovative Strategies to prevent repeat offenders offending (Stratégies innovantes pour la prévention de la récidive)

Description: Re-offending represents a large part of crime statistics in Europe. It is within this context that this project aims to emphasise the impact that prevention policies may have on the strengthening of social cohesion within communities, with the common point being the focus on people and their relationship with society. The target audience will be therefore be municipality workers from departments for social affairs and prevention, in charge of social inclusions policies.

The first phase of the project consisted in identifying these strategies and seeing how an effective partnership between the different stakeholders concerned by social cohesion can be put in place, with a partnership being the only method which guarantees a global and diverse approach. Four study visits organized in Gottingen (DE), Valencia (ES), Torino (IT) and Paris (FR) allowed partners to meet and to exchange the best practices, which in turn allowed a collection of the most promising approaches to be established. The materials collected within the study visits and as a result of the research carried out by each partner have been collected on the project’s website.

In the second phase, the partners created recommendations aimed at the actors involved locally and trialled pilot programmes in three cities. This led to the creation of a methodological training kit. Translated into French and English, this final report will serve as a reference tool for local administrations in need of guidance in this area.

Title: Audiovisual Education and Creation (Education et Création Audiovisuelle)

Description: This learning partnership had two main objectives: to encourage an exchange of practices and thoughts around the issue of creation and implementation of audiovisual creative workshops and training in prison; and to facilitate a dialogue between different learners (students and inmates), knowing that for inmates, there could not be any physical mobility.

Participants in the project created ‘video letters’ describing their daily life, either inside or outside of prison. These video letters were shared among participants and were also screened in a number of public forums, including a festival (the Libere di vivere festival) in Italy.

Through their involvement in the project, the partners acquired new ways or working. It is now intended that the project will be extended for a further five years.

<td>Description: The Open Door Project aimed to deliver basic skills and computer skills training to ex-prisoners in order to enhance their chances of benefiting educational and/or employment opportunities. Originally, it was intended to create an interactive website of practical use to the target group and adult education practitioners, and to develop a training programme for staff working with this and similar learner groups. However, the partners encountered a number of obstacles in delivering the project, including the unsuccessful application of the French partner which was to deliver the staff training program. Nevertheless, the project partners did undertake a number of activities, including training of ex-offenders in Ireland and Bulgaria and the development of a project website by the Finnish partner. An interesting learning development from the project was an increased awareness of the multi-faceted nature of disadvantage and the interface between the condition of being an ex-prisoner and identity as a refugee/displaced person / person with foreign nationality. Furthermore, the learners in Ireland gained accreditation and in most cases, continued informal learning in the area of ICT. Academic staff gained valuable experience in delivering material to disadvantaged and, at times challenging, learners.</td>

The Grundtvig funding for this partnership provides the opportunity to increase their international collaboration on comparing and developing best practices, organising exchanges in order to implement awareness-raising actions and in order to organise and study the content, methodology and delivery of a series of conferences to spread existing best practices, raising awareness among social players involved in this issue and promoting the TIP (Training and Information Pack Prison) guidelines which are devoted to training and sensitising staff working in different fields (schools, prisons and practitioners), focused on the theme of the relationship between imprisoned parents and their children.

A range of activities were carried out for this project, including a training course for prison staff, an exhibition of the artwork of children whose parents are in prison, press conferences and partner meetings to develop the TIP tool. In addition an integrated, socio-educational place called ‘Yellow Space’ was developed in Milan’s San Vittore prison and the partners collaborated with Save the Children on the preparation of two reports.

The partners collaborated to produce leaflets for prisoners being released from custody with useful information about services and emergency help. The leaflets have been adopted by prisons across Northern Ireland. The leaflets are also being used by the Courts Service in Northern Ireland. They are given to foreign nationals who appear in court and are found not guilty, so that they have the same useful information as those being released from custody. The leaflets have been translated into Mandarin, Cantonese, Polish and Portuguese. These have been given to foreign national prisoners, so they are also equipped with essential information when they leave prison. The project team have also developed lesson plans that focus on human rights and citizenship and these are also being used across the prisons.

Programme: Grundtvig
Title: A New Chance
Description: The aim of this project was to improve the provision of support to enable ex-offenders to integrate back into society. The main focus of the project was digital literacy and partners tried out different approaches towards working with this target group. Partnership meetings were held, which enabled partners to exchange experiences. Learners were also involved in the project by taking an active part in the meetings, as well as through exchange activities and working with project topics between the meetings. A project website was developed to host all information about the project. The website also provided ‘chat’ areas for students from the participating institutions. The final project product was an e-book, presenting proposals for good practice and details of all project activity.

Title: Positive aspects of non-formal education and learning in prisons (PANEL)
Description: PANEL intended to promote life-long learning, in particular non-formal education and learning, among offenders and prison-teachers. The project aimed to enhance the potential of individuals who are partly excluded from society (namely: offenders in prisons), in order to encourage learners to feel positive about educational progress and to increase their chances for social reintegration. The project partners explored different processes of addressing inclusion through non-formal education and informal learning for inmates in prisons. The main objectives of the project were:
- To explore different processes of addressing inclusion through non-formal education for offenders in different cultures in Europe, namely Romania, Denmark, Norway and Belgium (Flanders)
- To involve the staff and learners in a dynamic formative process across Europe
The target groups of the project were: detainees, offenders and teachers and prison staff working with detainees in each country. The main activities were: exchange of experiences, staff mobility, exchanging good practices. The main product was a website (www.panel-eu.org).

Title: Sin Barreras – Without Barriers
Description: The Grundtvig Project “Without Barriers” wants to exchange experiences in the education of marginalized adults and those at risk of social exclusion, through active cooperation between the different partner institutions and with the final objective of the social insertion of the adults. In addition, it is aimed to create in their respective centres a space of tolerance and respect towards their environment and towards the cultural diversity of each individual. The project will pay special attention to the social integration of the immigrant population in prison.

Title: Educational tool to integrate inmates

Description: To develop an educational pathway for inmates and ex-inmates, providing a combination of tools:

- Learning methods and pedagogical materials to provide the participants with linguistic, cultural, social, civic and professional knowledge, competences and skills
- In-service experience in the care and social sector, through the tutoring service of local associations and organisations involved in the provision of social services to people in need of care (elderly, disabled)

A wide range of outputs and products were developed by the project, including handbooks, CDs and a website.

Title: Sharing experiences about prisoners LLL and employment after releasing

Description: The main objective of this project is to share experiences and practices among the partner organisations, with a focus on professional insertion after learning and training in prison. Five meetings will have taken place by the end of the project (four have taken place so far), during which the partners learn about how the other countries address the professional reinsertion of offenders and work towards the preparation of the final project output – which is likely to be a book in English and French. The final aim of the project is to help the learners to find the best solution to socio-professional reinsertion after prison.

Title: The Heart Far Away (El Corazon Lejano)

Description: This project set up an autobiographical activity within prisons, enabling offenders to reflect on their past life and develop plans for a new future outside of prison. The objectives were:
- To reflect on the use of autobiographic work to define a project of life outside the prison.
- To develop self-identity among the offenders participating
- To encourage offenders in prisons to describe their personal experiences, in order to produce a European communication about the difficulties which they found during the period of their reintegration.
- To share and compare the results of the Project with similar experiences in European prisons.
- To communicate the results of the project to the local, regional or national educative institutions and the institutions which work with inmates in adult and juvenile prisons.
- To share the project experiences with local or regional Media
- To create a multimedia and a printed product at the end of the project.
- To introduce the methodology of autobiography as a common method of working in adult education in prisons.

The main results of the project included an online blog recording the activities undertaken and the participants’ autobiographical writings, the presentation of the results of the project to relevant media, authorities and institutions, paper and CD Rom outputs with details of the project’s achievements. The project was awarded with an Honorable Mention by the National Authority of Spanish prisons and the Government of Spain.

Title: Reintegrating prisoners through local partnership - RESO (Reinsertion des detenus à travers le partenariat local)

Description: The RESO project builds on another Grundtvig project, entitled EPLLA, Engaging Prisoners in Lifelong Learning Activity, which ran from 2002-2006. The RESO project had two main aims: to improve the collaboration between prison and society and to create some training modules. Its specific objectives were to engage prisoners in Lifelong Learning activities and to induce them to reflect on issues such as health, lifestyle, environment and work. Six project meetings were held, as well as a final project conference. The majority of beneficiaries were short term-offenders (the large majority of them being foreign), who were given the best opportunity to reduce their re-offending through learning and positive activities. Long-term offenders were also engaged in project activities, offer them the opportunity to improve their respect and dignity.

Title: Vocational Training Programme "Assessment and Case Management" (ACMP)

Description: The general aim of the project was to reduce social isolation and increase the social involvement of young offenders (aged 18-25) thereby improving their position on the labour market and reducing re-offending. The project undertook a complete process of analysis, design, development, testing and dissemination of a specialized multi-module training programme - Assessment and Case Management Program (ACMP) - for social workers, supporting them in training young offenders before and after release.

The main project output was the ACMP training programme, which has now been implemented as a Master’s degree specialisation at Plovdiv University.

Title: Preparing for and Handling Opportunities for Employment, saying “No” to Isolation and Xenophobia (PHOENIX)

Description: This project aimed to help disadvantaged groups to seek and secure employment. Each partner institution worked with different target groups from within the overall group of the unemployed (for the Maltese partner, the chosen group was prisoners) Partners commenced the project by distributing a questionnaire among their chosen target group, in order to collect information about their needs and wants. The results from the questionnaires were used to develop a programme of studies (focusing on life skills and computer skills). The programme was administered to 15 unemployed persons from each participating country (in Malta, to 15 prisoners). Feedback on the course was very positive

A website was created where project materials were hosted. All resources are also available on a CD-ROM and a booklet has been produced with the results of the research and the course. These products, as well as the delivery of a final conference, helped to disseminate the project.

How Individual Learning Pathways are Possible for Offenders (HIPPO)

Title: How Individual Learning Pathways are Possible for Offenders (HIPPO)

Description: The partnership wants to investigate how individual learning pathways and meaningful pedagogical approaches can be developed and applied in prison education, and also to learn from each others’ competences and experience.

Commencing in Autumn 2009, the partners will organize a series of study visits. Each study visit will focus on a specific topics which the partners consider to be important in relation to the offender’s journey through prison education. Each partner is responsible for a specific topic, based on their expertise and field of work.

Dates: 2009

Title: Educational toolkit for breaking down walls! Social reintegration of offenders - EdUkit

Description: The project aims to explore, analyse and develop alternative learning approaches to improve offenders’ life skills for their social reintegration in different European countries. The main focus of the project is on finding employment on release.

The project partners will exchange experiences, materials and methods. They will also try to identify examples of good practice in different countries that may inspire their own practice and jointly develop criteria for improving the existing materials and methods.

A website will also be built containing models of good practice, to facilitate exchange of experience and cooperation among trainers, teachers, and prison staff involved in education.

Title: Occupational and Employment Resources: Programme aimed at inmates in Third Level Penitentiary (R.O.L)

Description: The R.O.L project set out to develop a series of web-based tools to increase the employment potential of inmates in Third Level Penitentiary (short term, low-sentence or imminent release prisoners). The project aimed to develop a needs evaluation tool to enable the development of a professional and occupational profile for third level inmates, to be established via a web-based platform allowing access for both individual inmates and relevant support staff. A further business information tool (also web-based) was to be developed for work with individual employers in determining current attitudes towards the employment of ex-offenders. Project partners worked together to develop and validate both tools in the relevant partner languages. A ‘Guide to Occupational Resources’ for use by support staff within the target institutions was also to be developed and a ‘train the trainer’ course held to further instruct support staff in the use of the developed tools. Partners wanted to use ‘lessons learned’ from the project to contribute to social dialogue on this issue (press, radio, input at conferences, etc.) and work closely with both social partners and employers to better encourage the social re-insertion of those recently released from institutions.

Title: Innovative Strategies to prevent repeat offenders offending (Stratégies innovantes pour la prévention de la récidive)

Description: Re-offending represents a large part of crime statistics in Europe. It is within this context that this project aims to emphasise the impact that prevention policies may have on the strengthening of social cohesion within communities, with the common point being the focus on people and their relationship with society. The target audience will be therefore be municipality workers from departments for social affairs and prevention, in charge of social inclusions policies.

The first phase of the project consisted in identifying these strategies and seeing how an effective partnership between the different stakeholders concerned by social cohesion can be put in place, with a partnership being the only method which guarantees a global and diverse approach. Four study visits organized in Gottingen (DE), Valencia (ES), Torino (IT) and Paris (FR) allowed partners to meet and to exchange the best practices, which in turn allowed a collection of the most promising approaches to be established. The materials collected within the study visits and as a result of the research carried out by each partner have been collected on the project’s website.

In the second phase, the partners created recommendations aimed at the actors involved locally and trialled pilot programmes in three cities. This led to the creation of a methodological training kit. Translated into French and English, this final report will serve as a reference tool for local administrations in need of guidance in this area.

Title: Peer Mentor Support Project

Description: This project built on a previous Leonardo project entitled Peer Educator Training (PET). The Peer Mentor Support Project aimed to provide a peer mentoring service to support excluded or marginalised young people, to help them to access training, education or employment. The project piloted the use of Peer Mentors, working with specific target groups, and evaluated this method as a tool for the successful (re)integration of the target groups into vocational training and employment. Each partner in the project identified a group of young persons suffering exclusion or likely to be subject to exclusion from vocational training programmes as a result of their particular needs (offenders, young people with physical or learning disabilities), volunteers were then recruited to work as mentors to a group of 2-3 individual mentees. The intended outcomes of the project were: a report detailing the Peer Mentor System; the previously developed PET Training Pack in electronic form (CD-Rom or internet) and in a variety of languages; a Peer Mentor Training and Support Pack to develop and deliver Peer Mentor programmes across a range of situations and with a range of target groups.

Title: Centre 4 - Concerted Action 'Centre 4' Juvenile Probation Officers

Description: Centre 4 aimed to develop and pilot a training strategy in the field of juvenile probation. The main goals of the project were the improvement of knowledge, professional skills and competencies of specialised staff in institutional authorities and the introduction of innovative methods and best practice on issues related to juvenile probation and surveillance. Activities included the design and development of innovative training programmes for juvenile probation officers and graduates entering the labour market and the development of a pilot package for the monitoring and re-integration of juvenile offenders. The project aimed to intensify co-operation and synergy between national authorities, professional associations and other related judicial, welfare, educational and research organisations, which concentrate on and respond to juvenile delinquency through the provision of probation and monitoring services and the protection and re-integration of juvenile offenders. To this end, Centre 4 set out to establish an informal, transnational forum on judicial and home affairs to facilitate the exchange of good practices.

Title: Korzenie / Roots

Description: The main aim of the project is to support the process of social reintegration for prisoners through reference to positive values rooted in tradition, culture, and history of the region they come from, and through a reference to its present achievements and perspectives of its development.

The goal of the project was realised by organising carefully chosen and planned cognitive and educational activities for prisoners, enabling them to develop skills and interests, appealing to the sphere of feelings and emotions. During the realisation of the project, besides perceiving the prisoner as an individual, work in groups was emphasised.

Title: APL for young people in juvenile prison

Description: The project partners have recently commenced a pilot to recognize the competences of juvenile offenders (gained in formal and informal learning) using the accreditation of prior learning (APL). The young people and the tutors are trained to develop a portfolio of their activities, products and results of training. This portfolio is combined with an official APL procedure, linking the portfolio to a formal qualification. Leaving detention with the portfolio and these formal and recognised qualifications makes it easier for the youngsters to continue learning and/or working after their detention and therefore reduces the risk of a fallback to criminal behaviour.

The aim of this project is to share the experiences in providing APL for this target group with others, so that (best) practices can be shared and products can be improved. During the project the partners will share their experiences, update the products and pilot new products. Both partners are involved in training young people in prison.

The project activities include: sharing experiences on VET in prison in an international context; updating the Dutch materials for portfolio and APL for this target group; adapting the materials for use in the other partner countries; piloting the use of the portfolio and APL in other countries; evaluating the experiences and results; and publishing the portfolio and APL tools and lessons learned.

Programme: Leonardo

Title: Vocational Training Programme "Assessment and Case Management" (ACMP)

Description: The general aim of the project was to reduce social isolation and increase the social involvement of young offenders (aged 18-25) thereby improving their position on the labour market and reducing re-offending. The project undertook a complete process of analysis, design, development, testing and dissemination of a specialized multi-module training programme - Assessment and Case Management Program (ACMP) - for social workers, supporting them in training young offenders before and after release.

The main project output was the ACMP training programme, which has now been implemented as a Master's degree specialisation at Plovdiv University.

Dates: 2006

Lead partner country: BG

Partner countries: FR, LT, NL, SE

Outputs: Analytical report, training programme curriculum, project website (no longer live), handbook in BG and EN, CD-ROM with the training program and ACM tools, Project Newsletters

Title: Game On

Description: The project aimed to create e-learning materials and e-games in small, accessible units, to improve personal development and work sustainability skills in prisoners and ex-offenders, including additionally marginalised groups of prisoners, i.e. deaf prisoners and those who are learning disabled.

Partners created a Network Plan identifying key stakeholders and end users in each country; a trainers' pack in five community languages (English, Italian, Bulgarian, Romanian and Greek) and other learning materials in simple English text to be accessible to deaf people with some games tracks in British Sign Language; a suite of e-learning materials in basic skills, work preparation and social and emotional intelligence and e-learning materials in basic skills, work preparation and social and emotional intelligence; a tutor handbook to train the trainers in the use of the games and offline editor; and a project Website. An additional outcome was a dedicated Project Conference in Interactive Technologies, creating a new network for valorization with accompanying Conference Papers for this and other conferences.

Lead partner country: UK

Partner countries: BG, EL, IT, RO, UK

Outputs: A network plan, a trainer’s pack, e-learning materials, a tutor handbook, project website and conference, range of publications

Title: Preparing for and Handling Opportunities for Employment, saying “No” to Isolation and Xenophobia (PHOENIX)

Description: This project aimed to help disadvantaged groups to seek and secure employment. Each partner institution worked with different target groups from within the overall group of the unemployed (for the Maltese partner, the chosen group was prisoners) Partners commenced the project by distributing a questionnaire among their chosen target group, in order to collect information about their needs and wants. The results from the questionnaires were used to develop a programme of studies (focusing on life skills and computer skills). The programme was administered to 15 unemployed persons from each participating country (in Malta, to 15 prisoners). Feedback on the course was very positive.

A website was created where project materials were hosted. All resources are also available on a CD-Rom and a booklet has been produced with the results of the research and the course. These products, as well as the delivery of a final conference, helped to disseminate the project.

Dates: 2007

Title: ELBEP – Eliminating Language Barriers in European Prisons through Open and Distance Education Technology

Description: The main aim of the project is to solve communication problems between European prison staff and foreign prisoners, in Germany, Belgium and Greece. The project offers second language education to prison staff through an on-line learning environment. The project focuses on Russian, Polish, Spanish, Greek and Turkish, since foreign prisoners speaking these native languages compose significant proportions of the European prison population.

Title: Audiovisual Education and Creation (Éducation et Création Audiovisuelle)

Description: This learning partnership had two main objectives: to encourage an exchange of practices and thoughts around the issue of creation and implementation of audiovisual creative workshops and training in prison; and to facilitate a dialogue between different learners (students and inmates), knowing that for inmates, there could not be any physical mobility.

Participants in the project created ‘video letters’ describing their daily life, either inside or outside of prison. These video letters were shared among participants and were also screened in a number of public forums, including a festival (the Libere di vivere festival) in Italy.

Through their involvement in the project, the partners acquired new ways or working. It is now intended that the project will be extended for a further five years.

Dates: 2007

Lead partner country: FR

Partner countries: IT, NO

Outputs: DVDs (containing videos of the participants work and of a meeting of the participants)

Programme: Grundtvig (DA)

Title: The Open Door Project
Description: The Open Door Project aimed to deliver basic skills and computer skills training to ex-prisoners in order to enhance their chances of benefiting educational and/or employment opportunities. Originally, it was intended to create an interactive website of practical use to the target group and adult education practitioners, and to develop a training programme for staff working with this and similar learner groups. However, the partners encountered a number of obstacles in delivering the project, including the unsuccessful application of the French partner which was to deliver the staff training program.

Nevertheless, the project partners did undertake a number of activities, including training of ex-offenders in Ireland and Bulgaria and the development of a project website by the Finnish partner. An interesting learning development from the project was an increased awareness of the multi-faceted nature of disadvantage and the interface between the condition of being an ex-prisoner and identity as a refugee/displaced person / person with foreign nationality. Furthermore, the learners in Ireland gained accreditation and in most cases, continued informal learning in the area of ICT. Academic staff gained valuable experience in delivering material to disadvantaged and, at times challenging, learners.

Title: Theatre Education (Teatro Educazione)

Description: The project focused on informal education in the context of artistic education for adult prisoners. The partners promoted educational workshops, with both educators and learners, held in each prison involved in the project. The aim was to exchange effective methodologies and good practices among the different institutions involved. A sharing and testing process was then implemented for each methodology proposed. Each educational proposal was also analysed and integrated into the artistic planning and theatre projects of each organization. Finally, the partners agreed upon a common plan of events for international promotion of the artistic and educational projects. The project outcomes were promoted and presented within cultural events that could host both the actual outcomes of the exchange activities, such as artistic performances, as well as round tables for theory and politics.

Description: The RESO project builds on another Grundtvig project, entitled EPLLA, Engaging Prisoners in Lifelong Learning Activity, which ran from 2002-2006. The RESO project had two main aims: to improve the collaboration between prison and society and to create some training modules. Its specific objectives were to engage prisoners in Lifelong Learning activities and to induce them to reflect on issues such as health, lifestyle, environment and work. Six project meetings were held, as well as a final project conference. The majority of beneficiaries were short-term offenders (the large majority of them being foreign), who were given the best opportunity to reduce their re-offending through learning and positive activities. Long-term offenders were also engaged in project activities, offer them the opportunity to improve their respect and dignity.

Title: Sin Barreras – Without Barriers
Description: The Grundtvig Project “Without Barriers” wants to exchange experiences in the education of marginalized adults and those at risk of social exclusion, through active cooperation between the different partner institutions and with the final objective of the social insertion of the adults. In addition, it is aimed to create in their respective centres a space of tolerance and respect towards their environment and towards the cultural diversity of each individual. The project will pay special attention to the social integration of the immigrant population in prison.

Programme: Leonardo

Title: Creation as a reintegration tool (CREIN)

Description: This project is based on a previous Leonardo da Vinci project entitled CREATIVA. The CREIN project is mainly designed to develop a complete vocational reintegration process for women prisoners in the field of new technologies used in SMEs. The project set out to create a method and tools to be used in the framework of different modules: a training module, an awareness-raising module targeted mainly at SMEs and their training needs, a work experience and training support module, and a module for evaluating the vocational reintegration process. All the materials produced were to be made available on the Internet site and on CD-ROMs in all partnership languages (DE, ES, FR, IT, PL, EN). Beneficiaries of the project included women prisoners and marginalised women, the penitentiary systems in general, and all agencies responsible for the vocational integration of this target group. The dissemination strategy for the project results provided for the creation of an Internet site, the organisation of conferences and seminars, visits to firms and articles to be published in the specialised press.

Title: Preparing for and Handling Opportunities for Employment, saying “No” to Isolation and Xenophobia (PHOENIX)
Description: This project aimed to help disadvantaged groups to seek and secure employment. Each partner institution worked with different target groups from within the overall group of the unemployed (for the Maltese partner, the chosen group was prisoners) Partners commenced the project by distributing a questionnaire among their chosen target group, in order to collect information about their needs and wants. The results from the questionnaires were used to develop a programme of studies (focusing on life skills and computer skills). The programme was administered to 15 unemployed persons from each participating country (in Malta, to 15 prisoners). Feedback on the course was very positive

A website was created where project materials were hosted. All resources are also available on a CD-Rom and a booklet has been produced with the results of the research and the course. These products, as well as the delivery of a final conference, helped to disseminate the project.

Title: E-Learning Education for Prisoners and Prisoners Professionals (EEPP)

Description: This project started in August 2009 and will be completed in August 2011. The primary objective of the project is to establish and develop a dialogue among prison organisational and managerial staff and teachers from educational organisations engaged in working with prisoners, on issues, dynamics and experiences related to the use of ICT and distance learning for those at risk of social exclusion, particularly prisoners, and prisoners professionals. The project aims also to create a community of trainers able to maintain a continuous dialogue on these issues and to be the sponsor of new learning opportunities and reintegration into society of persons at risk of exclusion. The dialogue will take place through a series of five meetings over the lifetime of the project and through the use of electronic communication tools. The project results will be disseminated through a website, by meetings organised by local partners and by contributions to relevant publications.

Title: LEGAMI (Bonds) – Learning partnership on maintaining parent-children bonds when the parents are imprisoned (Partenariato di apprendimento sul mantenimento dei legame tra figli e genitori in situazioni di detenzione)

Description: LEGAMI brings together four European partners working with imprisoned parents. The Grundtvig funding for this partnership provides the opportunity to increase their international collaboration on comparing and developing best practices, organising exchanges in order to implement awareness-raising actions and in order to organise and study the content, methodology and delivery of a series of conferences to spread existing best practices, raising awareness among social players involved in this issue and promoting the TIP (Training and Information Pack Prison) guidelines which are devoted to training and sensitising staff working in different fields (schools, prisons and practitioners), focused on the theme of the relationship between imprisoned parents and their children.

A range of activities were carried out for this project, including a training course for prison staff, an exhibition of the artwork of children whose parents are in prison, press conferences and partner meetings to develop the TIP tool. In addition an integrated, socio-educational place called ‘Yellow Space’ was developed in Milan’s San Vittore prison and the partners collaborated with Save the Children on the preparation of two reports.

Title: Reintegrating prisoners through local partnership - RESO (Reinsertion des detenus à travers le partenariat local)

Description: The RESO project builds on another Grundtvig project, entitled EPLLA, Engaging Prisoners in Lifelong Learning Activity, which ran from 2002-2006. The RESO project had two main aims: to improve the collaboration between prison and society and to create some training modules. Its specific objectives were to engage prisoners in Lifelong Learning activities and to induce them to reflect on issues such as health, lifestyle, environment and work. Six project meetings were held, as well as a final project conference. The majority of beneficiaries were short term -offenders (the large majority of them being foreign), who were given the best opportunity to reduce their re-offending through learning and positive activities. Long-term offenders were also engaged in project activities, offer them the opportunity to improve their respect and dignity.

Title: Sin Barreras – Without Barriers

Description: The Grundtvig Project “Without Barriers” wants to exchange experiences in the education of marginalized adults and those at risk of social exclusion, through active cooperation between the different partner institutions and with the final objective of the social insertion of the adults. In addition, it is aimed to create in their respective centres a space of tolerance and respect towards their environment and towards the cultural diversity of each individual. The project will pay special attention to the social integration of the immigrant population in prison.

Title: Foreign language acquisition made easier (FLAME)

Description: This project was designed to facilitate the process through which prisoners learn a foreign language. The partners wanted to explore new and innovative ways of explaining certain aspects of learning a foreign language within a socially excluded environment which is unique due to the nature of the institutions involved.

The main activity will be the creation of a Word Calendar that will be accompanied by an additional Exercise Book of related materials. In addition to the Calendar, each partner create individual teaching and learning materials, based upon the specific needs and requirements of the prisoners involved in the project in each participating country. The partners want to emphasize the increasing importance of learning a foreign language within the EU, as well as raise awareness within the prison community that learning a foreign language is important, but can also be enjoyable!

Title: Fit - Flexibility in prison teaching

Description: The goals of this project were to:

- develop and reinforce contact between several institutions that carry out prison teaching, and
- make teaching for adults in institutions more flexible.
A wide range of outputs were produced as a result of the project and the partners benefited from the chance to learn from each other. Outputs included: literacy and numeracy booklets in English, written by inmates for inmates, learning modules and increased flexibility in the partners’ provision of education and training.

Title: ADHD in prison education

Description: It is estimated that many inmates in prison are suffering from Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). This may create problems among the inmates and in the prison environment. The overriding aim of the project was to find out in what way the health, welfare and school departments can cooperate in finding ways of achieving improvement for this group, and by that improving their quality of life. Project partners sought to widen and improve general knowledge about ADHD, exchanging experiences as well as teaching methodologies, and carrying out research on the topic.

Title: Audiovisual Education and Creation (Education et Création Audiovisuelle)

Description: This learning partnership had two main objectives: to encourage an exchange of practices and thoughts around the issue of creation and implementation of audiovisual creative workshops and training in prison; and to facilitate a dialogue between different learners (students and inmates), knowing that for inmates, there could not be any physical mobility.
Participants in the project created ‘video letters’ describing their daily life, either inside or outside of prison. These video letters were shared among participants and were also screened in a number of public forums, including a festival (the Libere di vivere festival) in Italy.

Through their involvement in the project, the partners acquired new ways or working. It is now intended that the project will be extended for a further five years.

Title: Accreditation of prior (experiential) learning in prison (La démarche de VAE pour les personnes placées sous main de justice)

Description: This project focused on the accreditation of prior (experiential) learning for offenders. The partners worked together to examine the constraints and disincentives to the development of accreditation of prior (experiential) learning in the prison environment; to reflect on educational and training practices in Europe; to develop means of support, assistance and advice adapted to the prison context; and to involve prison personnel in the process of accreditation of prior (experiential) learning by offenders. A report on social reintegration and the accreditation of prior learning has been prepared in English and French. A survey has also been carried out on the same subjects, which could be used to support action research at European level.

Title: Theatre Education (Teatro Educazione)

Description: The project focused on informal education in the context of artistic education for adult prisoners. The partners promoted educational workshops, with both educators and learners, held in each prison involved in the project. The aim was to exchange effective methodologies and good practices among the different institutions involved. A sharing and testing process was then implemented for each methodology proposed. Each educational proposal was also analysed and integrated into the artistic planning and theatre projects of each organization. Finally, the partners agreed upon a common plan of events for international promotion of the artistic and educational projects. The project outcomes were promoted and presented within cultural events that could host both the actual outcomes of the exchange activities, such as artistic performances, as well as round tables for theory and politics.
